WHY NOT A FAIR HERE

Last week, Markham had its annual fair and a very successful fair it was. Earlier, Sutton had shown its revived horse-show and Schonberg had its fair. Aurora began the season in the spring with the resumption of the Aurora Horse Show. These York county fairs all had this in common: they were very successful, more so than their sponsors expected.

It has been the same throughout Ontario. There is a revived interest in fairs, an interest which is paying off in dividends in business and goodwill for the sponsors. A fall fair is one of the most effective ways that a country town has at its disposal to create business for itself. Yet in Newmarket, despite the success of its neighbors, there has been little if any attention paid to the possibility of reviving the fair here.

This lack of interest is all the more incongruous in view of the excellent facilities Newmarket now possesses in the shape of the former military drill hall on the fair grounds, and the experience in holding large public events which is possessed by members of the Lions club, the Women's Institute and other organizations.

Another advantage which would lend itself to putting on a successful fair in Newmarket is the development during recent years of rural organizations such as the junior farmers, the crop improvement association, etc. Such groups could be counted upon for active support in operating a fair.

To serve its purpose, a fair here would have to be predominantly agricultural. It should not be difficult to make it so. There exists at present sources of aid for such fairs in the county grant as well as in possible provincial aid. In the large number of entries to other fairs this year is evidence of a desire of farmers to participate.

By starting preparations now, Newmarket can have a fair in late spring or in the fall. If the opportunities that Newmarket has at hand are ignored there will be no second chance. Next year, the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto will resume, and Newmarket will lose to Toronto business it can ill afford to lose. Unless the businessmen of Newmarket rid themselves of their present complacency and take steps to boost their business through the medium of a fair, and for that matter, a properly organized Christmas market, a farmers' day, and similar events, Newmarket will lose its present prominence as a business centre.

STRANGE PLATFORM FOR CANDIDATE

Lieut. Col. John Hunter, M.C., Liberal candidate in the Parkdale by-election Oct. 21, cites as his main qualification for the federal seat the fact that he is a Liberal. Col. Hunter told a radio audience a few nights ago that since he was a Liberal, if elected, he would be in a position to do more for his constituency than any of the opposition candidates if they were elected.

Members of the opposition can do nothing, he told his audience, because they are out-numbered in the house but a Liberal representative had the whole weight of the government party behind him. If Col. Hunter is to be believed, by electing him, the Parkdale voters will also be enlisting the full power of the government party in their support.

Now, truly, this is a strange doctrine for a federal candidate to be uttering. Does Col. Hunter mean that members of the government party have access to certain privileges on behalf of their ridings which are not granted to opposition members? If so, this information will come as an unpleasant shock to most citizens who have always thought the duty of all elected representatives was to serve the whole country without favor.

Apologizing the same argument, Col. Hunter made the astonishing statement that the opposition never does anything. Granted it doesn't do all it could do (witness its lack of action in the steel strike), but the opposition members do serve a useful function apart from giving dissatisfied electors a chance to blow off steam.

Members of the opposition can serve Canada and their representatives just as effectively as members of the government party by acting as critics, as checks against too much government and as a means of the expression of public will when there is disagreement between the government and the people. Through opposition members, legislation not considered by the government can be introduced.

Col. Hunter is serving neither his party nor the country by the cynical appeal he is addressing to Parkdale electors. Let him as a candidate stand on his attainments as a man, on his beliefs and his intentions. Let him also display a better understanding of the high office which he is seeking.

What Others Think

NEW GOVERNMENT NEEDED

(The Printed World in Fort Erie Times-Review) By now it must be apparent to all observers that Canada needs a new government. There are, of course, difficulties about effecting a change, as the Opposition found in 1940, and again in 1945. There are rumors of discontent in Liberal back benches but there is as yet no evidence that private members will not jump at the crack of the party whips.

More serious are other difficulties. To elect a C.C.F. government would be to fall from frying pan into fire. To elect a Pro-Con government would be to remind one that the miracles which sanctified Mother Cabrini were not in the field of politics. It is unlikely that Quebec will vote Pro-Con, ever, even though Mr. Duplessis' bleus may defeat Liberals.

The indictment against the Liberal government is that it has surrendered to bureaucracy. There are many evidences of this. Official Ottawa wishes to prolong the war; or at least the war powers. It required a humble request of Gordon Graydon, M.P., to end, eleven months after V-J Day, the ban on brownie cameras in the corridors of the Centre Block, as if the out-of-focus snapshots of the people who paid for the noble pile could sully it.

The pattern is control of the citizen, repression of the taxpayer, restriction of the individual. The watchdog is verboten and the procedures are Prussian. This government is determined that neither the freedom nor the relatively low taxes of 1938 shall ever return.

Bureaucrats are the bosses. Howard Green, one of the most sincere men who ever entered parliament, recently was contending that amendments about veterans' pensions were not in accord with the views of the Commons committee members who had attended the sessions. Douglas Abbott, whose attitude is that of a jocular cat which knows it can swallow the mouse at will, conceded that the amendment as written was in accord with the views of the civil servants of the pension commission. Voters are naive who think that the views of their elected representatives carry much weight.

A Senate committee spent time and thought in considering income-tax procedure. Its recommendations made sense which, if adopted, would have clipped the wings of bureaucrats by restoring a rule of law and revoking whimsical decisions of paid officials. Mr. Ilsley's amendments modified the recommendations for the convenience, and possibly the vanity, of officials.

The list is by no means exhausted. The war measure known as foreign exchange control is being erected into a permanent structure, with power of a board to make its own law and appeal barred on most matters. This, too, is the organization which governed exchange so wisely that it lost all its reserves and more (a total of $140,000,000) at precisely 7 p.m. on Friday, July 5, 1946. The government dropped National Registration only when it was discovered necessary to grant amnesty to 14,000 who failed to report for military duty. The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, unofficial propagandist for the C.C.F. government of Saskatchewan, is being continued in its role of arbiter of free speech and sole controller of the competing private stations. The family allowance administration is establishing that all children are wards of the state. By the route of crown corporations, government is going more and more into business and is planning to take over export trade.

Socialists like all this. But Grits, Tories, Whigs, Radicals, Progressives, Democrats, Republicans, Liberals, Conservatives, and all believers that the individual is more important than the state must abhor and fear what is being done at Ottawa today.

Mr. King's pipelines to Europe no doubt have informed him that the trend is to the left. But the trend there does not make it right or wise here, or even there. Mr. Ilsley may be convinced that the college graduates who run foreign exchange and such are gentlemen and therefore would not misuse their power. But the gentlemanly Kerensky was succeeded by the cool planner Lenin. Besides, Mr. Ilsley's gentlemen already on occasion have punished evildoers in a manner not calculated in Magna Carta; all probably have been guilty, but no court has yet said so, or ever will.

THANKS, MR. SMITH

By GOLDEN GLOW

I spent a delightful hour at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Smith, Victoria Ave., the Saturday after my little tribute to Harry J. Moore appeared in The Era and Express on Thursday, Oct. 3, in the form of an article entitled Peace Garden. I think we should persuade either Mr. or Mrs. Smith to write what they told me, for I found it exceedingly interesting. By the way, Mrs. Smith is once more able to be up and around the house after her long illness and she opened the door to me herself when I arrived, after she had called me on the phone just after reading my article.

She asked me to come over as they had something they were sure I'd be interested in. I had not the faintest idea what it would be and I am sure I would never have been able to guess I assure you I did find it most interesting. Mr. Smith knew the man, Mr. Kneller, who designed the wonderful Peace Garden, the one who called himself K-K, the friend of Mr. Moore—and Mr. Smith showed me his invitation to the opening, or should I say the dedication, of the Peace Garden on July 14, 1932, which his friend, Mr. Kneller, had sent him.

It seems that Mr. Kneller once lived in town—but evidently for only a short time—and he and Mr. Smith became friends and many were the long talks they had on subjects of this sort, for you quite likely know, without me telling you, that Fred is quite a "man of trees" and has a special wood lot of his own in a particularly beautiful part of the country near Newmarket where he spends a good deal of time improving on nature.

But to get back to the Peace Garden. It was, as I had said, the idea of our horticultural friend, Mr. Moore, Islington, but K-K Kneller was the one that worked out the design, a work that occupied over two years of his time.

Fred let me have a little pamphlet describing a few only of the thousand and one interesting features proposed for this wonderful garden, while it was yet existing only in the mind of the designer. It is a little pamphlet sponsored by the Western Home Monthly of Winnipeg and is headed "presentation landscape foundation design for the International Peace Garden to be dedicated July 14, 1932." This suggested design is to be presented to the International Peace Garden commissioners with the compliments of K-K, creator of Gardens Beautiful.

Fred said the design was a huge map 40 feet high with all the details worked out to scale, a scale of 44 feet to the inch. It was as I had said, on display at the Robt. Simpson Co. store, Toronto. It was also on exhibition at the Hudson's Bay Co. store, Winnipeg, June 27 to July 5, 1932, so the little pamphlet states. What I said in my article is quite correct except that K-K worked out the design, but it was Mr. Moore's idea originally and K-K did it, as you might say, under his direction.

The only public entrance to the garden is from the east along the international line and the flower beds I mentioned of the Union Jack and the Stars and Stripes are a quarter of a mile inside the entrance. They are of colored flowers and are 800 feet long and 500 feet wide. They slope downward from either side toward the main boulevard, which is 100 feet wide. The letters International Peace Garden are of royal deep purple tiles and are 25 feet long and 12 feet wide at their widest point. The centrepiece of the garden is eight large circles, each complete in itself, and are symbolical of quietness, unity, honor, simplicity, happiness, faith, trust and hope.

Then there are four designs representing peace sanctuaries symbolizing the four corners of the earth, as do the four peace towers. The peace sanctuaries are connected by overhead arches with Gothic columns 50 feet thick which rise 100 feet in height and support a huge globe. The interior of the globe holds a pipe organ and a broadcasting studio and is surrounded by a perpetually revolving beacon which is helpful to aviators.

The peace towers are at each corner, 150 feet high and 75 feet square with magnificent views of the garden and surrounding country. They are also used as reservoirs for water supply.

There is a conservatory with small ornamental pools, miniature rockery bridges and all varieties of rock plants, aquatic plants, ferns, palms, etc., all beautifully illuminated. There are four formal rose gardens, wild woodland gardens left as natural as possible with sanctuaries for wild birds and little creatures of the woods, fenced away from the gardens and flower beds.

We had a very interesting talk on the subject and my thanks again to Mr. and Mrs. Smith for the personal touch. If Mr. Kneller comes this way to again visit them, I am to be invited to meet him—so I may hear still more of this wonderful place. And as if that wasn't a special treat without anything more, imagine how pleased I was to have Mr. Ed Brannan tell me he knew the place where the garden stands, having spent a

Why Should A Child Suffer From Parents' Pride

Jackie is 6½ and is repeating the first grade because his teacher and his mother are agreed that this is best for Jackie. Jackie is most fortunate in having a teacher and a parent who are sufficiently interested in his welfare to do what is best for him despite public queries. Jackie's teacher doesn't willingly pass on any child to the next teacher just to get rid of him, neither does she consider it a reflection on her ability as a teacher if some of the pupils in her class haven't learned the work required in the first year. Jackie's teacher knows that some children profit but little in a group and need individual attention to develop their capacities.

In Jackie's instance, he was really just a baby, mentally, when he entered school although he was old enough in years. If he had had a few months of kindergarten training previous to entering school, he would probably have adjusted himself to the school routine. As it was, he was so bewildered with all the newness and so excited at school that his learning process didn't function along academic lines. Jackie learned some things but his reading and printing were far below standard. It would have been an injustice to have pushed him on to the more difficult work before he had acquired the proper foundation for it. The pushing on policy results in certain failure for any child no matter to what grade or form he is pushed.

Jackie's mother is a sensible individual. She believes it is best that Jackie repeat the first year and is glad his teacher agrees. If more mothers were as sensible as Jackie's, more children would have happy and successful school years. Too often, the parents' selfish pride makes them think of themselves and what their friends will say if Johnny doesn't pass. Sometimes, parents criticize the teacher for not doing a proper job of training if Johnny failed to pass. Neither of these attitudes helps the child, but both actually hinder his future progress.

In the case of Jackie, he would profit most in an opportunity class. In such a class he would receive individual attention and be specially tutored in reading and printing. After a time in such a class, he would be ready to join his regular classmates. However, under the present arrangement, Jackie will have to do considerable unnecessary repeating of first-grade work with new and younger pupils and can never hope to join his original classmates.

Opportunity classes fill a real need in every school curriculum. Some children need special tutoring in certain subjects. Some children, who learn little in the regular classroom, are discovered to be exceptionally brilliant when they receive individual attention. Many children, who fail miserably in their attempt to travel at the speed of the regular classroom, often do very creditable work at a slower rate of progress. In an opportunity class, these children are very happy because they are successful.

There certainly is no stigma connected with an opportunity class. The child who is allowed to attend such a class is privileged, indeed—he receives special instruction and is helped to develop all his talents and potentialities as an individual.

FEW LUXURIES

For every five shillings of imported goods, Great Britain today shows four shillings of exports. Only sixpence in every pound of imports is spent for such "luxuries" as clothes, films, and so forth, the remaining 19 shillings and sixpence being expended for raw materials, food and industrial equipment.

year in that very district. He says what I called the Turtle mountains is really only a high ridge—but that it overlooks prairie country and he recalls standing on top and counting 42 threshing units in operation. But that was before this project was carried out. However, he had heard it all described in detail several times by Mr. Moore when on visit here to our horticultural society.

And let me, here and now, thank my many friends who have either written or called up or stopped me to chat about the tribute to Mr. Moore. One friend, who knew Mr. Moore personally through the flower shows, for he was many times judge for our society, said my article was the first intimation they had of his death.

You never know when you sit down to write a little article what memories it stirs up. Again may I say thank you to my friends for their kind appreciation.

THE COMMON ROUND

By ELEANOR HENRISS CORVILLE

"WHY"

It seems to me that "Why" is on everybody's lips these days, and so few satisfactory answers seem to be forthcoming, that our lives remain animated question marks.

At one time in our national life women were as dormant, so far as national life was concerned, as the dormouse in Alice's teapot, and if they questioned the powers that were, the answers were as relevant as the Mad Hatter's. But now, women have learned their power as citizens and the "whys" are getting louder and demanding more attention.

Why is the housing shortage so acute? Did the government think the war would last for ever, or that so many would be retained as occupation troops or find rest in poppy covered fields, that the coming back of the residue would make no appreciable difference in our national economy? It seems a strange commentary on our gratitude to those who left homes to ensure the safety of us who were left behind, that, although our returning heroes were welcomed with open arms and bands and civic acclaim, they were more homeless than in camp or barracks.

And we, the people, were just as much to blame as the government. We could have insisted that the home army get our lumber and build and prepare for the "after the war" that seemed so far away but was bound to come.

We are almost the richest nation as far as food stuffs are concerned, and yet we are undernourished. We have vast timber reserves and yet many are homeless. We have a fine system of education and yet many of our people are illiterate.

Why? We are becoming increasingly aware of editorials, articles on current events, and newscasts and commentaries—Why? I suppose because we are bewildered by a security council which seems to find so few grounds for security; by a relief council which finds it hard, at times, to get the relief when it is needed; by a meeting of foreign ministers who find their task almost impossible because of national, geographic and ideological stumbling blocks.

Canada has a terribly vital interest in all these "whys." Why? Because, as a nation, we are so huge geographically and so small in population, so rich in land, minerals, foodstuffs and tourist value, that we would be a real prize for any predatory nation. We have the joy and security of an unguarded frontier to the south, and we are a vital part of the British Commonwealth, but for all that we are terribly vulnerable, hence our almost tragic interest in the hope that world peace can be guaranteed, and not by appeasement.

Why? Because appeasers lose self respect and when that is lost nations, like people, lose the respect of others.

We hear daily of crimes so appalling that they sicken one of our civilization. It is time we all, instead of the devoted few, tried to help find the answer to the "why."

I am not a philosopher, nor a statesman, a politician nor a preacher, but it seems to me that at the bottom of much of this confusion is homes—or the lack of them. We who have peaceful homes where the amenities of life and the fear of God are part and parcel of daily living, have no right to judge those who are homeless—or worse, for some homes help on the downward instead of the upward way.

I suppose one fundamental difference between ourselves and the Russians is that religious instruction in many homes and all schools is nil there. Russia's children are state-controlled—they grow up with the idea that the state is all. Our children are individuals and trained as such. The children of Russia hear only what the state thinks good for them—Why? Because of the fear of discontent. Our children are free to listen to anything and everything to the point of confusion, but they are free to listen. And out of the hedge podge of facts, figures and theories, they may be able to form an idea of what Canada means in relation to the world. In Russia it's what the world means in relation to Russia.

I think that in our national life God is left too much out of the picture. Just think of the power behind the comet display of the other evening, and realize that its deflection toward the earth would have been disaster greater than atomic bombs could wreak. It seems that we are leaving out the only stabilizing and world-in-gathering force in the universe.

Are we ashamed of being God-fearing folk? If so—why? Are we so proud of our scientists, our statesmen, our soldiers and thinkers that we feel we do not need God?

And yet, our personal, home, civic and national life are found-

... should answer these questions:

How MANY 'earning years' are you looking forward to? Right now you take pleasure and pride in that job of yours! But later in life, retirement is going to seem pretty attractive too. Years slip by quickly. You should, accordingly, SAVE through Mutual Life of Canada insurance which will provide for your retirement and protect your dependents...

Does it matter WHICH life insurance company you choose? Yes! Life insurance companies are much alike as to policies and rates, but actual long-term results vary widely. We invite you to compare The Mutual Life of Canada's record with that of any other company. Evidence of the satisfaction of our policyholders is furnished by the fact that whole families and succeeding generations have entrusted their life insurance programs exclusively to The Mutual Life of Canada, and each year approximately 35% of its new business comes from policyholders. Ask your Mutual Life representative to explain the special features of this Company.

"What is it?" asked the sick man.
"A ship," said his friend enthusiastically.
"I don't want to see a ship," groaned Jack, "call me when you see a tree."

NOT FOE OF RUSSIA

It is absurd to picture Mr.
Bevin as the enemy of Moscow.
He defended the Russian revolution when it had few friends in England. He has offered to extend Britain's treaty of friendship with Russia from its present term of 20 years to 50 years.
Co-operation he welcomes; but domination he will stubbornly resist.—Winnipeg Free Press.

"Where were you on the night of the 17th?"

"I thought I told you to keep away from here," smiled Bob.
"My dear, I never see you any more, since you turned the cellar into a shop," protested Ethel. "If a cop were to ask me where you were on the night of the 17th, I wouldn't even have to think. What a lovely table, Bob! Who's that for?"
"It was to be a surprise for your birthday, but you see what you get for snooping. I've put in every free night for three weeks on it, but I've never been so happy in my life. For years I figured I couldn't afford the tools and the lathe and stuff. But when we got down to a budget that looked after our life insurance and other essentials first, I saw I could indulge myself and do a bit of tinkering."

A man with adequate life insurance enjoys a freedom from worry that nothing else can give him. Premium payments call for systematic saving and budgeting. Once the future of his loved ones is secure, the head of a family can relax and derive pleasure from his hobbies.

Now you, is a life insurance agent. Ask him for advice in planning your future. It is good citizenship to own life insurance.

MAGISTRATE'S COURT

$100 PENALTY METED OUT IN LIQUOR COURT

The charge against William Burns of having liquor illegally and which had been adjourned last week pending the calling of further witnesses, was dismissed on Friday in magistrate's court here, but his wife, Henrietta, was convicted of having liquor illegally. Magistrate J. E. Pritchard, K.C., presided.

Last week Constable B. Burbridge testified that he, along with Constables Kidd, Wallace and Sanderson, had searched the home of the two accused and found a quantity of beer and some hard liquor. When the liquor was checked against the permits of persons residing there it was found that there was no permit to cover two of the cases of beer and one bottle of liquor, according to Constable Burbridge. Mrs. Burns claimed that one of the cases of beer belonged to her mother, the other to her daughter, both of whom lived there part of the time. She said that she had bought the liquor for her son, Garfield, on a messenger slip.

On Friday, Mrs. West, mother of the accused woman, and Mrs. Nora Gribble, accused's daughter, were called as witnesses for the defence, each testifying that they owned one of the cases of beer. Mrs. West was unable to identify which case it was that she said she had bought.

Magistrate Pritchard said that a big factor against the two accused was that they had said nothing about either Mrs. West or Mrs. Gribble when questioned by the officers at the time of the raid.

"The first question I have to decide is whether in fact the case of beer did belong to Mrs. West. Having regard to the fact that no mention was made of her at the time of questioning and having regard to her apparent drinking habits, I am not satisfied that the beer did actually belong to her. I am also highly suspicious of the evidence of Mrs. Gribble but am prepared to assume that it was correct.

"The next important question is whether the residence of the accused could be deemed to be the residence of either Mrs. West or Mrs. Gribble. I am of the opinion that it could not.

"The next question is, was the beer in the possession of the accused? The accused man, William Burns, did not give any evidence and, consequently, I am not prepared to assume that he had any knowledge of the existence of the beer and the charge against him is therefore dismissed. But it is clear that the accused woman, Henrietta Burns, knew that the beer was in her home and I find that the beer in question was in her possession.

"I find also that one of the cases was not purchased on her permit and was not lawfully in her possession or in the possession of any other person legally resident there. I therefore find Henrietta Burns guilty as charged and fine her $100 and costs or three months."

Arleigh Armstrong, crown attorney, asked that the home of the accused be declared a public place. L. C. Lee, counsel for the accused, objected and Magistrate Pritchard upheld Mr. Lee's objection.

POTTAGEVILLE

The special services in connection with the dedication of the new Sunday-school building were largely attended. Following these services, the minister and his officials decided to have two weeks of special services. These services will be in the charge of the minister, with Jerry Park in charge of the song service and solos, and Rev. H. W. Crone of Toronto as special preacher. The meetings got away to a splendid start with only 30 present last Tuesday. On Friday evening, there will be special music and Mr. Crone will give an illustrated address to the young people.

Midgets Trounce Maple 6-3 As Patricks On The Beam

Aurora midgets bounded back into the lacrosse battle on Friday night as they defeated Maple 6-3 to tie the finals and send the North York championship into a third game.

It was a case of too much Patrick, for the entire six Aurora counters were notched by two cousins, Howard Patrick gathering a quartet of markers and Bill Patrick netting two. While the Patricks were starting on the pay-off end, Charlie Southwood played a sweet game in the nets, and Phil Davidson and Loring "Ozark Ike" Doolittle formed a well nigh impenetrable defence. Billy Attridge and Don Holman turned in their best efforts of the season and matched sticks with the best on the floor.

Tom Armitage opened the scoring for Maple, but H. Patrick came back to get two, Doolittle and Nesbitt getting the assists. The second period was scoreless. Both teams scored in the third, Bill Patrick taking Mundell's pass and McCullough scoring for Maple. H. Patrick and Attridge combined for Aurora's fourth goal, and Patrick stretched it to three goals in front. Ken White reduced the count, and then Bill Patrick put it all on ice with a sneaker play.

Al McNair and Bill Norton handled the whistle and play was rugged.

Maple: Brillinger, White, Miller, Laver, Lines, Jones, Armitage, B. Miller, Bailey, Bell, Donihan, Line, McCullough, Keffer.

Aurora: Southwood, Doolittle, Davidson, R. Mundell, C. Patrick, H. Patrick, Holman, Nesbitt, Smith, Attridge, Brodie.

Cyclists Resume Thanksgiving Race With Field Of 20

Five hundred interested spectators saw the renewal of the Aurora Cycling club's annual Thanksgiving ten-mile cycling race which attracted a field of 20 riders. Earl Jukes, Toronto, riding from scratch, flashed the best time of the day, riding the course in 25.07.2 minutes and providing a big thrill as he, along with three other riders, formed a blanket finish in their own bracket of the race.

Orla Larson, 18-year-old Newmarket rider, starting with a five-minute handicap, was the actual place winner of the race, finishing well in front of the next rider. Larson's time was 32.29. He was delayed at least 30 seconds by a C.N.R. train. Billy McClenny was next to cross the finish line having a five-minute handicap. Bob Warlow and Cliff Heath were other Aurora lads to the fore.

Cliff Chapman, who finished fourth in the time section, the best showing made by district riders, went the route in 25.38 and annexed the Dawson trophy for club honors. Chapman might well have won the race but made his final sprint a bit too soon. Bob Benville, who placed eighth in the regular grind, finished fifth in time with 2.41. Benville ran in hard luck, riding the last half-mile with a flat tire.

Murray Chapman and John Offord, two nine-year-old youngsters, won the prizes for the youngest riders and turned in great performances much to the satisfaction of the spectators. Every rider but one finished the course.

A fine array of prizes was made available through the generosity of local sportsmen and the Canadian Wheelmen's Association. The prizes were presented by club president, John Offord; Jack McDonald and William Elder of the C.W.A. were present to act as judge and starter and George Spence, secretary of the local club, Aurora firemen and former club members had everything running smoothly.

Moment Musical
THE MUSICIANS' CORNER
By H. G. Fowler, Mus. Bac.
Supervisor, Newmarket public school music,
Organist, choirmaster, Trinity United Church.
In My Child Musical Music teachers are sometimes called upon to settle this question in the mind of a distracted parent, and since a complete and convincing answer is usually expected then and there, the teacher finds himself casting frantically about for some effective way to soften the blow. It is quite evident that the parent is anticipating a negative reply, and therein lies the teacher's predicament. Any answer must be conditional and not final.
One may as well expect a physician to prophesy the height and weight which a child will reach in adult life.
A young man was brought by his father to Beethoven, to have the great master hear him play.
After the audition the father asked: "Don't you think he has the possibilities of a genius?"
Beethoven replied: "I cannot tell you now. Let me hear him play when he is 60 years old! While his technique is brilliant, his performance is musically dull. I would rather have a pupil who feels everything and knows nothing, than one who knows everything and feels nothing."
In a child of school age, artistic genius is not nearly as serious a question as his ability to apply himself successfully to a given task - such as piano practice. The degree of self-discipline which he is able to exert, will answer the question of his musicianship in good time. As a parent, you might ask yourself a few questions. Has your child been exposed to the best of music in home and social environment? Is the practice period a routine part of his daily timetable, respected by the rest of the household, and kept free from interference by noise or interruptions? If he lacks the ability to apply himself to music practice, you may discover that he displays a similar lethargic attitude toward other obligations as well. Beware of hasty conclusions. Give him a fair chance to develop.

SNOWBALL

Women's Institute will be held

Copson on Wednesday, Oct. 23, a place you have visited or a trip you have taken." A demonstration will be given on Salads for Helath. A miscellaneous sale will be held.

who passed away October 20, 1939.
They say time heals all sorrow
And helps us to forget,
But time so far has only proved
How much we miss you yet.
God gave us strength to fight it
And courage to bear the blow,
But what it meant to lose you,
mom,
No one will ever know.
Forever dearly remembered by her children, Marjorie and Frank.

Foster-In loving memory of a dear father, Jos. Foster, who passed away October 19, 1945.
I think of him in silence,
His name I oft recall,
There is nothing left to answer
But his picture on the wall.
Lovingly remembered by son Bill, daughter-in-law Vera and grandchildren Barbara and Ronnie.

Foster-In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather, John Joseph Foster, who passed away October 19, 1945.
Gone from us, but leaving memories
Death can never take away,
Memories that will always linger
While upon this earth we stay.
Ever remembered by son Morville, daughter-in-law Cora and grandchildren.

McNelly-In loving memory of our dear mother, Cora McNelly, who passed away September 17, 1943, and also our dear father, Morris McNelly, who passed away October 22, 1945.
God knew that they were suffering,
That the hills were hard to climb,
So He closed their weary eyelids
And whispered, "Peace be thine".
Away in the beautiful hills of God,
By the valley of rest so fair,
Some time, some day, we know not when,
We will meet our parents there.
Ever remembered by Marion, Merton, Margaret and Gordon.

Smith-In loving memory of our dear son, Kenneth Gordon Smith, who passed away October 16, 1939.
He has gone across the river
To the shores of evergreen,
And we long to see his dear face
But the river flows between.
Some day, some time our eyes shall see
The face we loved so well,
Some day we'll clasp his loving hand
And never say farewell.
Ever remembered by mother and dad.

News On Recreation

By MICKEY SMITH

Cycling: The Aurora Bike club held its annual ten-mile road race on Thanksgiving Day and Orla Larsen won first prize in the handicap. The Newmarket boy was really travelling. As this is his first year of racing, we would like to say "good luck". Bob Benville finished fifth in time although he rode the last mile and a quarter with his back tire flat. This is a good showing and we say "well done, boys".

Soccer: The boys are beginning to get into shape and are playing real football. Those of you who haven't seen them play are surely missing some fun. Don't forget the games in the arena on Friday night.

Dancing: Last Wednesday we held our first community dance and it was successful thanks to all who turned out for it. We also would like to thank the people who helped put this show over. Our many thanks to the entertainers.

Checkers: We are holding a meeting next week to get organized for the winter months. Watch the sign board in front of Victor's where we will post the date.

Rodeo: Don't forget November 11, 12 and 13 for the finest show to come to Newmarket in years.
